AOFAS Visiting Professor Program 2019

Guidelines

The Visiting Professor Program is designed to enhance the educational experience of orthopaedic residents. Visiting Professors can give lectures and case presentations, participate in grand rounds, lead a journal club, etc. Residency training programs without full-time orthopaedic foot and ankle faculty are given first priority in the application process. AOFAS members in active leadership serve as Visiting Professors, and AOFAS staff work with host institutions on dates and availability.

Host institutions agree to prepare a full-day or 1½-day program for the Visiting Professor (VP). A suggested format follows:

Proposed 1½-day format options

Day One

- VP arrives early afternoon; delivers lecture (later, dinner* with faculty and residents) or
- VP arrives late afternoon
- dinner* with faculty and residents

Day Two options:

- lecture
- grand rounds
- case presentations
- review of prior OITE exam questions and discussion of answers
- journal club

Dinner: Host Institution plans and pays for a dinner for the Visiting Professor and program residents. This need not be fancy; something as simple as burgers or barbecue is fine. The purpose is to promote informal conversation, allowing for easy discussion and answering of questions. Scheduling the dinner at the very end of the visit is fine as well, depending on what works best for all parties involved. (It is not mandatory that faculty be present.)

Expenses: The only expense for the hosting program is the dinner. The AOFAS gives Visiting Professors an honorarium, which also covers their round-trip coach airfare, ground transportation, and lodging expenses.
